

HARDING TO AVOID ALL NEGOTIATIONS UNTIL IN OFFICE

By examining the dates of the speeches in which Senator Harding discussed the treaty and League of Nations during the month of September and October it will be noticed that nothing was said publicly by Mr. Harding which Elihu Root, at any time, interpreted as a contradiction of the advice given, for Mr. Root himself continued to support Harding and made a speech at Carnegie Hall, New York, in October, reiterating his own views on Article X, and urging the election of Harding.

Mr. Marion during the last week of the year learned that Elihu Root was not held in the same high favor on questions of foreign policy as he appeared to be in Washington and New York and other parts of the country, where it had been confidently believed that Mr. Root would be the backbone of the Harding Administration on foreign policies. Indeed, it was noted that in almost all the dispatches sent out from Marion giving the gossip about the future Cabinet, Mr. Root was not named for Secretary of State.

It is also declared that when Elihu Root cablegram came from Europe Senator Harding showed his displeasure. Whether he communicated his criticism to Mr. Root is not known to the writer, but from the fact that the former Secretary of State at a later date made a public speech urging the election of Harding on the League issue the inference may be drawn that Mr. Root was not acquainted with any such disapproval.

Indeed, the only evidence presented publicly that Senator Harding is disposed to disagree with Mr. Root came after the election and during the past week, when in an address to the crowds who came to cheer him at Marion Senator Harding spoke of the election verdict and then referred to the Treaty of Versailles as "deceased." Mr. Root had cabled that it was "very unwise to declare the League dead."

FRIENDS OF THE TREATY HAVE NOT LOST HOPE.

Friends of the treaty have not lost hope, and the few who know about Mr. Root's cablegram believe that Senator Harding must inevitably accept the Root view. As for the explanation made in March, 1919, in the letter sent by Mr. Root to Will Hays, the reference to "The Hague Court" in that communication is as follows: "There was a weakness in the system devised by The Hague Conference. It was that arbitration of justiciable questions was not made obligatory so that no nation could bring another before the court unless the defendant was willing to come, and there was no way to enforce a judgment."

After declaring that in his judgment strictly "justiciable or judicial questions" should be obligatory, Mr. Root wrote that the United States ought to be willing so far as such questions were concerned "precisely on the same footing as other nations," but that "with regard to questions of policy, some difficult considerations are apparent." He added: "The great essential thing about the plan contained in the covenant of the League of Nations is that it makes international conferences on political questions compulsory in times of danger; that it brings together such conferences upon the call of officers who represent all the powers and makes it practically impossible for any nation to keep out of them."

IMPORTANCE OF THE ROOT CABLE TO HARDING.

Mr. Root praised the scheme for international conference, but pointed out some of its serious defects. The important thing is that Mr. Root cabled Senator Harding from London after a personal observation of European affairs that the structure of the present treaty and the League was "worth preserving and was by no means dead."

Some people will profess to see a clear break between Senator Harding and Mr. Root. Others are confident that Senator Harding will do the right thing when he calls a conference of the statesmen of America and that the value of Mr. Root's judgment will then be fully tested. The Root cablegram, which it is only fair to say he did not give out for publication, is the deliberate judgment of an American who was Secretary of State under President Roosevelt and the American representative at the Second Hague Conference.

In Marion there is a disposition to look upon Mr. Root as having advanced to such an old age as to be out of tune with the spirit of the last election result and as having such affiliations with the international banking groups as to make his advice of doubtful value. Those who are skeptical, and when President-elect Harding returns to his home it will become apparent exactly how much Elihu Root's advice will be taken on matters of foreign policy.

ARMOUR CO. QUILTS CANADA.

Supply of Hogs in Dominion Tentatively Kept Plentiful.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Armour and Company announced to-day that it had closed out its business in Canada, including a packing plant at Hamilton, Ont., and selling agencies at St. John, Sydney, Hamilton, Montreal and Toronto.

The supply of hogs in Canada is insufficient to keep the packing plant running, it was explained, and the reason for importation of dressed meats from Chicago prohibitive.

Law and Diplomatic Propriety Forbid Conferences With Foreign Agents.

STILL IN PRIVATE LIFE.

Fishing and Golf to Be Chief Sources of Amusement in Texas.

ON BOARD PRESIDENT-ELECT HARDING'S SPECIAL TRAIN, Nov. 8 (By the Associated Press).—Coming to Texas for a vacation after the trying requirements of his campaign, President-elect Harding declared to-day that he was determined to put aside thoughts of his coming responsibilities and to give himself over for the next two weeks to complete rest and recreation.

From the time of his arrival at Point Isabel, a small and remote village on the Southern Texas coast, he was ready to plunge unreservedly into the swing of a real vacation. A morning's fishing expedition and an afternoon on the golf links were to constitute his routine during virtually every day of his visit.

Mr. Harding said to-day that no conferences with Mexicans were "in prospect," and that he had heard them expressed only in newspaper speculation.

The same attitude was taken by the President-elect toward published suggestions that he might begin, before his inauguration, informal conversations with European governments regarding the formulation of an association of nations. Not only does he want his vacation undisturbed, but he has said in public utterances that he desired to have no negotiations with foreign agents until he actually had come into authority.

The delicacy of Mr. Harding's position in that regard has been pointed out more than once by those closely associated with him. Elected to the Presidency by an overwhelming majority after promising many changes in the nation's foreign policy, he naturally is looked to by foreign governments to take the proper steps to put those changes into effect. Yet, by a proviso of American law, unique among the greater powers of the world, he remains a private citizen for four months, forbidden by diplomatic propriety to take any hand in the direction of executive affairs.

At a time when important international problems are pending, not only with the powers of the Old World, but with Mexico, Japan, China and other nations, this situation takes on additional interest. It is understood that several men representing themselves as the spokesmen of foreign statesmen, attempted to gain interviews with Mr. Harding at Marion even before his election, but his headquarters officials say all of them were turned away.

President-elect Harding will sail from New Orleans Nov. 18, for the Canal Zone on board a United Fruit Company steamer, it was learned here to-day. Returning, he will be landed at Norfolk on Dec. 4.

The steamer selected by Senator Harding is the Paramecia, a vessel of 497 gross tons. There will be thirty-five persons in Senator Harding's party. The Paramecia, leaving New Orleans Nov. 18, will arrive Nov. 23 at Cristobal.

For the return voyage accommodations have been reserved on the liner Pastora. The stop at Norfolk has been arranged so Mr. Harding may go by the shortest route to Bedford, Va., where he is to deliver an address before a meeting of the Elks Lodge.

WOMAN VANISHES; WAITING FOR TRAIN

Philadelphia Man Reports Disappearance of His Wife From Jersey City Station.

Jacob Goodman, Philadelphia, reported to the Jersey City police last night that his wife, Ann Goodman, disappeared from the Erie Railroad Station in Jersey City. He left her in the waiting room for a few moments, and when he returned, she had disappeared. He searched in vain for her for several hours.

Mrs. Goodman wore a blue serge dress, mink scarf, and black velvet hat. The couple were on their way to Philadelphia. Goodman said his wife might have taken the ferry to New York City.

SHOTS FIRED IN GARAGE.

Watchman Target, He Says, But Is Arrested for Having Revolver.

Policeman Briggs of the East 10th Street Station heard four shots at 3 A. M. to-day in a garage in 10th street, near the East River, and found James Hayes, nineteen, No. 1955 Second Avenue, the watchman, with blood on his face.

Hayes insisted some one shot him through a window, but a surgeon from Mount Sinai Hospital said the wound was not made by a bullet. Hayes was searched, and the police say he had a revolver with four expended shells. Two of the bullets had stuck in the barrel. He was arrested on a charge of violating the Sullivan law.

HARDING PRAISES GIRL SCOUT AIMS

Aviator Flying Here With President-Elect's Message to $1,033,400 Campaigners.

New York Girl Scouts to-day awaited eagerly the news that President-elect Harding's message on why he thinks scouting a fine thing for girls had started for this city by airplane in care of Laura Brownell, the famous aviator. To-morrow is Daddies' Day in Girl Scout Week, devoted to raising $1,033,400. The campaign began with Girl Scout Sunday, when sermons were preached on the subject.

Mrs. Jane D. Rippin, national director, read a letter from Senator Harding. "The triple aim of the Girl Scout movement, home-making, health getting, and citizenship," Mr. Harding said, "is an ideal of womanhood to which I am delighted to give my entire approval and support."

"The women of the future has tremendous opportunities before her. She will desire to govern herself for them to reap full advantage of them. The Girl Scout movement, in its well rounded educational programme, is most valuable."

Girl Scout sermons were preached in New York by Archbishop Hayes, St. Patrick's Cathedral; Bishop Charles Sumner Burch, the Cathedral of St. John the Divine; Dr. William J. Manning, Trinity Church; Dr. Cornelius Wolfstein, the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church; Rev. John Keenan, D. D., the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church; Dr. Nathan Stern, the West End Synagogue, and Rabbi Stephen F. Wise, the Free Synagogue.

CONSTANTINE SEEKS DEAD KING'S ESTATE

Legal Battle With Mme. Manos, Widow of Alexander, Begun in Court.

ATHENS, Nov. 8.—The question of the legal rights of Mme. Manos, the morganatic wife of the late King Alexander, are likely to be threshed out in court. Her attorney has asked for the removal of the seals from the apartments he occupied, asserting that Mme. Manos, through her marriage and also because of her approaching motherhood, would legally inherit Alexander's property.

Former King Constantine, through an attorney, then asked the court to suspend action until he had time to instruct a hearing, which resulted in the court's decision that the marriage was invalid and that Alexander's property should pass to his father and brothers. Should Constantine take legal action, jurists point out, it would constitute an admission that he is no longer King of Greece, as the chief of state, being the dispenser of justice, cannot appeal to the courts.

TRAVIS NOT THE ONLY ONE.

Others Involved in State Bond Deals To Be Investigated.

Assistant District Attorney Peacor, who presented the evidence and conducted the examination in the John Doe hearing, which resulted in Chief Justice Kernochan's referring the case of State Comptroller Travis to the Grand Jury, announced to-day that the additional October Grand Jury would be assembled as soon as possible to consider the case. Judge McIntyre of General Sessions had held over this body for the purpose of considering the evidence in connection with the Comptroller's bond purchases. The body could not be convened to-day, as the foreman, John J. Dillon of No. 234 Lafayette Street, is out of the city.

Mr. Peacor announced that he would not confine himself to the case of Travis, who alone was held by Justice Kernochan, but would submit the testimony and evidence concerning others concerned in the bond transactions, by which Albert L. Johnston, a broker, made more than $100,000 profit. The Assistant District Attorney stated that if Mr. Travis, James A. Wendell, the Comptroller-elect, or Johnston wished to testify before the Grand Jury they would have to present themselves voluntarily, as he did not intend to call them. Justice Kernochan's decision held that the evidence tended to show that Travis had violated the Penal Law regarding auditing or paying fraudulent claims against the State.

MAYOR TAKES STEP TO PROBE INTO ALL CITY'S CONTRACTS

developments, show that the meeting was attended by Frank P. Walsh, representing the International Organization of Structural and Bridge Ornamental Iron Workers, Commissioner of Accounts Hirschfeld, J. T. Hettrick, "representing the International Limestone Workers Association," and Michael Cohen, "who advocated the use of limestone."

The minutes continue as follows: "The Secretary presented resolutions offered by the Comptroller as Chairman of the Committee on Court House, providing for the award of contracts for construction work, and on the new Court House for New York City, to the following: Bethlehem Steel Bridge Corporation; Post & McCord, Inc.; Dennis E. Conners; D. J. Killian; Henry Handson & Son; and Hermann & Grace Co."

Although Comptroller Craig is a member of the new Court House Committee and although Guy Lowell, architect on the new building was at his disposal, he declared it is not his function to examine bids for the purpose of determining whether or not there is collusion between bidders. The duty of the Comptroller as the chief financial officer of the city, he said, is to pay no claims presented until he is satisfied they are just. The Comptroller has no power to make a contract or to award a contract. Such power resides in the Board of Estimate as a body. He said the Comptroller makes it a point to keep as clear as possible from the question of awards of bids so that he may pass on vouchers with an open mind.

Comptroller Craig says the power and authority to enforce the law and punish crimes in the matter of illegal combinations is reposed in the Attorney General and the District Attorney when a complaint has been made. This power is entirely different from that conferred upon a Comptroller whose powers are confined to the auditing of vouchers, Mr. Craig explained.

Inasmuch as Comptroller Craig says there is no power in his office which permits him to investigate a bid, he said that he therefore did not investigate the Court House proposal, it is obvious the millions of dollars worth of offers for Court House construction were not investigated at all. Secretary Harg of the Estimate Board declaring he didn't investigate them because the entire matter was placed in Comptroller Craig's hands.

BEATEN UP SEEKING MOVIE ACTRESS

Process Server Asks Court's Aid in Effort to Find Husky Assailant.

Displaying a blackened eye and sundry bruises, Edward Rother, professional process server of No. 234 West 12th street, went to Yorkville Court to-day to ask aid in identifying and finding a 200-pound six-footer who beat him up Saturday when he went to serve a summons on Clara Kimball Young, movie actress, at the Hotel Commodore. Rother stated he went to Room 825, which he understood to be that of Miss Young, to serve the summons in a civil action against her for $25,000 by the Harriman National Bank on an unpaid promissory note for four months dated Feb. 15, 1920. The bid, he said, was opened by a big man who dragged him into the room and pummeled him in an attempt to get the summons away from him.

The court promised aid and the case will come up again Nov. 16.

CITY'S EXPERTS FAILED TO PROBE BIDS FOR COURT

Despite Small Army of Employees None Discovered There Was Collusion.

THE outstanding feature in connection with the Court House bids, which were rejected only after graft was shown by the Lockwood Committee, and which Mr. Undermyer says are exorbitant is that the elaborate and costly engineering check-up system of the city appears to have utterly failed to function in these matters. In order, presumably, to protect the city in its dealings with outsiders there has been built up within the municipal administration a small army of engineers, inspectors, efficiency experts and checkers of various kinds.

None of these public servants discovered that the courthouse bid was a collusive arrangement designed to mulct the city of millions; none discovered apparently that any contracts for the erection of public schools were collusive or otherwise fraudulent.

Two city bureaus in particular are supposed to safeguard the interests of the city in such matters. One is the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, which has on its staff twelve engineers, who are supposed to look into matters connected with the distribution of the city's moneys. They cost $45,000 a year.

The other bureau is the office of the Commissioner of Accounts. The testimony taken by the Lockwood Committee shows that this branch of the Lockwood Committee began to bring out the collusive bidding facts. Yet, the Commissioner of Accounts employs an examining engineer, an assistant engineer and ten examining inspectors at a cost of $25,000 a year.

POLICEMEN HONOR WOMAN ONE KILLED

Fund for Baby Nets $1,000, and Mother Is to Be Buried Free To-Day.

A pretentious funeral will be given Mrs. Dorcas Hufsch, killed by a defective bullet intended for a thief, from No. 54 James Street to-day. The white hearse will be drawn by six white horses, there will be four coaches filled with flowers and about forty coaches of mourners.

In the first carriage will be the husband, Dan Hufsch, World War veteran, his mother and his mother's baby of eight months. The other mourners will be led by "Hon." Robert Vanella, "Mayor of James Street."

The woman died from a bullet fired by Detective Kenny of the First Branch Bureau. The police have started a fund. Not more than $1 has been received from any one, but there is now about $1,000 in the fund, which is to be put in bank for the baby. "Mayor" Vanella, an undertaker, and every one else concerned, are giving their services free.

PAYNE MAY LEAVE CABINET.

President, as Literary Man, Will Be Powerful, He Says.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 8.—John Barton Payne, Secretary of the Interior, who was here Saturday attending the centennial celebration of the medical college of the University of Cincinnati, said he hoped soon to be relieved of office. He will then take up the work now awaiting him as President of the South Park Commission of Chicago.

Mr. Payne said that President Wilson, as a literary man, would continue after his retirement of the Presidency to exercise a considerable influence in public affairs. "Mentally," he said, "the President is as alert and vigorous as ever and never makes a trivial mistake. He also takes an active part in the discussion of the most important questions of the day. It may be a long time, however, before he fully recovers physically."

BASEBALL PEACE NOW BELIEVED TO BE WITHIN SIGHT

Magnates in Conference in Chicago—Good Progress Toward Settlement.

(Special to The Evening World.) CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—The first rift in the clouds of war hanging over the baseball world became visible to-day.

Three highly important meetings, important in view of the fight being made by the National League aided by three American League owners to adopt the celebrated "outsiders' plan" were held. Previous to the fall of the gavel neither side would give an inch and a war seemed assured.

The "faithful five" of the American League named Clark Griffith as an emissary to call upon the eleven owners for an exchange of views. The loyalists met in President Han Johnson's office, and upon adjournment announced that a full meeting of the League would be held.

The three insurgents—Comiskey, Ruppert and Frazee—refused to attend this gathering. They were closeted with the National League owners at the Congress Hotel, but since the Johnson forces contain the American League Board of Directors, the League meeting was legal.

It is believed that after Griffith consults with the National League and the minority three a plan will be agreed upon whereby the two factions can get together. It was said that Griffith in the meeting of the faithful five demanded that the quarter be represented in some way at the joint meeting. There was no announcement made of what transpired.

The five loyal owners present were Frank Navin of Detroit, Clark Griffith of Washington, James Dunn and Secretary McInnis of Cleveland, Phil Ball of St. Louis and owner Shibe and Manager Mack of Philadelphia.

The National League here for the gatherings are: Harry Herrmann, George W. Grant, John McGraw, Judge Francis McQuade, owner Jones of St. Louis, Barney Dreyfuss, Bill Veck and Charley Dobbins. Col. Ruppert proposed to the Johnson faction that the sixteen club owners hold a joint session, excluding the Presidents of both leagues, Han Johnson and John A. Heydler.

The Johnson faction offered a counter proposal that a committee of three be appointed by each side, rather than hold one meeting with all sixteen club owners present.

Clark Griffith and Walter H. Miller, attorney for Han Johnson, went to the Heydler meeting to explain the proposal.

COTTON MILL CUTS PAY 20 PER CENT.

Concern at Uncasville, Conn., Reopens After Being Closed for Two Weeks.

UNCASVILLE, Conn., Nov. 8.—The cotton mill of the Uncasville Manufacturing Company, which has been closed for two weeks, will be reopened to-day with a 20 per cent reduction in wages, according to notices posted at the mill.

According to the manager of the company, refusal of dealers to buy at high prices had necessitated an average reduction of 50 per cent, and that only a portion of the curtailment in the production had been passed on to the employees.

THREE GUILTY OF MURDER.

Second Degree Pleas Accepted—Fourth on Trial.

George Kuet, No. 416 Grand Street, Manhattan; Frederick Traina, No. 627 Driggs Avenue, Brooklyn; David Roman, No. 238 South Third Street, Brooklyn, and Jacob Herman, No. 7 St. Marks Place, Manhattan, were charged for trial on a charge of murder to-day in General Sessions. They are accused of killing Solomon Fishbein, 35, 27 Second Avenue, who was shot to death by masked robbers at a card party in his home May 16.

Counsel for Herman demanded a separate trial, which was granted. Pleas of guilty in the second degree by the others were accepted by Judge Malone who remanded them to the Tombs until Thursday for arraignment. They are expected to testify at Herman's trial.

FIND YONKERS MAN DEAD IN BRUSH

Believed He Was Killed by Auto and Carried to Secluded Spot.

The body of Andrew Bronson, forty-three, No. 123 Oak Street, Yonkers, was found to-day hidden in underbrush on Runway Road, an undeveloped section of Yonkers. It was believed he was killed by an automobile and that his body was carried to a hole in the automobile and thrown into the bushes. Bronson left his home Wednesday to go to his garden at Dutchess. It is believed he was returning by a short cut through the woods, and when he stepped out into Runway Road was struck by the machine.

Three heads of cabbage were found near the body, and it was believed the motorist picked them up and carried them with the body to the secluded spot. A New York evening newspaper dated Nov. 2 was found nearby.

The body was found by Albert White, No. 104 Oliver Avenue, Yonkers, who was on a hunting trip.

Anthony Moore, Receiver of Taxes, told the police to-day that Andrew Durnik, an assistant cashier, put the money in a cash receipt in the safe Saturday afternoon, and then locked the safe. To-day Frank H. Woodruff, another cashier, opened the safe. The cash drawer had been forced open by breaking the lock.

The Long Island branch of the Detective Bureau admitted to-day that the matter had some aspects of an inside job.
